

Attack plan

The three bugs can be exploited to read the secret: first, a z command can be used to load the secret in the environment, then the overflow in the f command can be exploited to zero-out the nselected field in the cmd structure and pass zero arguments to froblicate. The latter program will try to interpret the environment strings as filenames, printing them.