The `rdx` register contains the address of `cmd_echo` when the `printf()` in `cmd_echo()` is called. The contents of `rdx` can be obtained by sending, e.g., `e%2$lx`. Now the load address of the server can be obtained by subtracting the offset of `cmd_echo()`, obtained with `nm server | grep cmd_echo`.