

Analysis of the bug

There are two bugs related to the `num` field in the `objentry` structure:

- the field is not updated when the default value is used;
- the field is updated and is not reset if the object creation fails.

Together, these two bugs can be abused to create a mismatch between `num` and the actual number of objects in the array.