

Analysis of the bug

The `Obj_write()` function tests for the availability of 1 characters, but then uses `strcpy()` which will write 1 characters plus the string terminator. Therefore, the bug can be exploited to zero-out the byte immediately after the end of the allocated chunk.